VOICELESS TELEGRAPHY

Maui Yearned Vainly For the Polo News.

MAUI'S PONIES WERE TO BLAME

Paia Plantation Railroad—The Kahului Line—School
Teacher's Meet.

MAUI, April 27.—Something has been the matter with the wireless telegraph for more than a week. However, repairs have been completed, and the line began working again at 3 p. m. yesterday, the 27th. Last Sunday, the 21st, the friends of the Makawao Polo Club were much disappointed at the non-receipt of the promised message of victory or defeat per wireless telegraph.

Appropos of polo, when the Maui players returned from their recent trip and were asked as to the reasons of their defeat, they replied "Ponies pu-la," and that tells the whole story, for the utmost efforts of the most expert player are of no avail on a tired mount. The ponies of the Maui team at Moanalua recently were in a wretched condition. Taken from the pasture, transported on a steamer, and then stable-fed for a week only, they were thin and weak, and decidedly out of condition to compete with the animals belonging to the Oahu club.

Through some blunder, no mail for Makawao district was landed by the Mauna Loa on the 23d. The Paia postoffice received a bag of Hana mail, simply this and nothing more. The The Mokoli brought the mail Wednesday night.

During the week Maui sheriffs have been busy summoning grand and petit jurors to assemble Wednesday morning, June 5th, 10 a. m., at Wailuku courthouse.

Miss Renwick is the matron and efficient housekeeper of the large new clubhouse at Camp 5, Spreckelsville.

Mr. J. M. Dowsett arrived on Maui per Mauna Loa of the 23d. He and Mrs. Dowsett are visiting their relatives in Makawao.

During the afternoon of the 23d, fifteen teachers and their friends attended the monthly meeting of the local association in the Makawao schoolhouse. There were teachers present from Spreckelsville, Kula, Kaupakula, Haiku, Paia and Makawao. The following program was presented:

A selection from Whittier's "Snowbound," S. R. Dowdle.
"Tonic Sol Fah," Miss E. dos Reis.
Dictation, Eugene Capellas.
Formal Grammar, W. C. Crook.

The last mentioned subject provoked considerable discussion, one side maintaining that every pupil, to be properly educated, should have a knowledge of grammar, while their opponents declared that a thorough acquaintance with good literature rendered the study of the technicalities of language unnecessary, especially with children of the common Hawaiian schools, who devote such a brief period of their lives to education.

S. R. Dowdle presided at this meeting, and Eugene Capellas was secretary.

The vicinity of Paia plantation mill presents the appearance of a small railroad center since the construction of several additional tracks for the purpose of switching cane cars from the main tracks to those leading into the mill. Beside three large cottages, the plantation people are erecting a very large building to be used as both carpenter and blacksmith shops.

The Kahului Railroad Company has had preliminary surveys made of their new railroad line to Hamakua, via Paia. The depot at Paia will be placed between the plantation mill and the reservoir situated makai.

The ladies' Thursday Club held their regular meeting at the residence of Mrs. D. C. Lindsay, Paia, during the afternoon of the 25th.

Edward Wilcox has resigned his position as postmaster of Ulupalakua. F.
P. Rosecrans will probably be his successor.

ONCE A TREE, NOW A TABLE

Isenberg's Beautiful Memento of an Old Landmark—Bed for a Prince.

Those who remember the big ironwood tree which formerly stood on the Hackfeld premises, corner of Fort and Queen streets, on the site of the present handsome stone building, which stands as a monument to the foresight of the first Hackfeld, will be pleased to know that the old landmark was not entirely destroyed.

Portions of the tree now form the polished top of a beautiful table, which has just been completed for Mr. H. A.
Isenberg, of this city. The table is about six feet in length, of ample width, and the entire top is formed of small pieces of bright and dark woods of this tree, all of which have been inlaid. The polishing of the top was a week's hard work. The pedestal is hand-carved, and the whole affair forms a fine memento of the old landmark which stood for so many years, almost the last tree in the lower part of the business district. Lucas Brothers were the makers.

A handsome Hawaiian bed of kauwila wood is also being made for Prince David Kawanakoa, and when completed it will be about the finest piece of furniture ever made in the Islands. The four great posts are novel in design, and, by sections, are made to represent various Hawaiian fruits.
The bases of the posts are carved to represent pineapples. Where the sideboards join the posts, taro roots are carved, and so on. Festoons of leis, carved in bas relief, wind about the posts from top to bottom. On each post the coat of arms of Prince David, the tabu sticks, will be prominent in bas relief. The headboard is a magnificent piece of carving, representing in careful detail, several varieties of the fern leaves found in the Islands. These radiate from a center formed by an oval-shaped crest which contains the words "Kalia-Kanuu," and the whole is surmounted by a crown.

Kauwila wood is about the hardest of the native woods, and the heaviest.
In ancient days this wood was shaped into the great spears which were used in battle. When shaped down to a point almost as fine as a needle, they were weapons to be feared when thrown by the athletic warriors of old.
Sticks of the wood were also used to construct stretchers in which the chiefs could be carried when wounded.
Shoulder sticks for carrying bundles at either end, were also fashioned from this wood, together with all implements of war. The wood is so hard that the carvers have difficulty in cutting it, and occasionally its extreme hardness causes it to chip off as if it were stone.
Some call the kauwila "Hawaiian mahogany."

NOTES FROM KAU.

New Citizens Admitted—Rains Improve Crops and Stocks.

Before the court at Kailua, W. F.
Reynolds, a native of England, and resident of Waiohinu, on April 9th, was duly naturalized, with W. J.
Yates, deputy sheriff of South Kona, and M. F. Scott, clerk of the Third Circuit Court, as sponsors.

At the same time and place, William P. Hart, school teacher of Waiohinu, received his naturalization papers, W.
J. Yates, of South Kona, and George McDougall, of Hookena, being his sponsors.

Refreshing and steady rains have been prevalent in South Kona and Kau for the past two weeks. Cane looks well everywhere, and vegetation goes ahead in all directions.

Cattle look better than they have for two years past, and all that is required to make the district of Kau a lively place is government lands thrown open to settlement under United States homestead laws.

Mr. Schemerhorn, representing J. F.
Morgan, paid a flying trip to Kau the past week.

STERILIZED BARBER SHOP.

A Famous Shop in the Carrollton Hotel, Baltimore, Maryland.

The barber shop in the Carrollton hotel, Baltimore, sterilizes everything, it uses in the shop. The sterilizing is done by heat. The towels, the razors, the strops, the soap, the combs and brushes are all sterilized before being used on a customer. Where there is no sterilization have the barber use New-bro's Herpicide. It kills the dandruff germ and it is an antiseptic for the scalp and for the face after shaving.
All leading barbers everywhere appreciate these potent facts about Herpicide and use it. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."
